Symposium

Controversies exist on nutrition therapy for ICU patients. How do we define the patients at true nutritional risk in the ICU? When to start feeding and how to combine enteral and parenteral nutrition? Which kind of combination should the nutrition contain? What is the role of micronutrients and anti-oxidants?

Fresenius Kabi wants to set focus on these topics and is very pleased to invite you to a symposium with internationally acknowledged speakers. The symposium is arranged in a cooperation with the Danish Consultant, MD, Senior Staff Specialist Jørgen Wiis, Copenhagen University Hospital. Jørgen Wiis also holds the position as Vice President of The Danish Society for Clinical Nutrition.

Venue

The Radisson Blu Scandinavia Hotel is situated centrally in Copenhagen with easy access from both major roads as well as public transport. Ample parking facilities.
